Global Finance Magazine quotes Paul Bauer in “Real Estate Costs Hit Company Balance Sheets”

NOVEMBER 6, 2017

Global Finance Magazine quoted Paul Bauer in an article discussing how work-space management lags behind work-style changes and how this presents new challenges for property managers. As mentioned in the article, if your company were paying wages 40% above market rates, or carrying 40% too much inventory, then management would get involved in an urgent way. Yet similar waste has crept into corporate real estate spending around the world without attracting much notice.
