NBC Talks with Mark Borenstein in “Back to Work in Mass.: How Companies Are Doing It and What Workers Should Know”

MAY 20, 2021

As COVID restrictions are lifting, many people are returning to work in-person, if they haven't done so already. Now, companies are working on how to bring their employees back safely. Mark Borenstein spoke with NBC Boston about returning to the office and Bowditch's targeted approach.

It's important to still be aware that the pandemic is ongoing and we need to take certain actions to protect our coworkers and our loved ones. We've staggered our schedules, so folks are able to feel safe when they come back into the office.
