WBZ Radio Talks With Bob Cox About PFAS Legalities

MAY 25, 2021

More cities and towns are finding PFAS, also referred to as “forever chemicals”, in their local water sources. These chemicals can be found in food packaging, household products, and some fabrics. WBZ Radio spoke with Bob Cox about the legalities of this issue.

> There’s a concern that if you live outside an urban area and have a private drinking water well and you get this data in, you’re going to have to take some action.
