Tina Bussone Spoke at Worcester Regional Chamber of Commerce's "Leading Through Organizational Change"

On October 28, Tina Bussone spoke at "Leading Through Organizational Change" presented by the Worcester Regional Chamber of Commerce as a part of the Worcester Women's Leadership Conference.

Organizational change is a hard thing for an organization to undergo and achieve. There are several leadership qualities that are necessary to envision, sell, and effect change. It takes convincing skills, great communication, and a lot of hard work for your vision to come alive. This panel of leaders from different organizations shared their experiences, which have remarkably similar themes across industries. What went well? What would they do differently the second time around?
