Paul Bauer Spoke at Bisnow Boston Life Sciences Summit

On March 31, Paul Bauer and a panel discussed “Finding More Space: Navigating Repositioning – Targeting Conversions & Vacant Buildings” at the Bisnow Boston Life Sciences Summit. Attendees learned how to enhance their businesses by gaining a stronger understanding of how the leading life science players are receiving a strong return on their investments and where developers are finding more desirable development locations. They also gained exclusive insight into how life science campuses are being executed, navigating GMP facility risk and understanding the evolution of the city’s leading life science developments.

Topics included:

- How do developers assess which existing assets are primed for repositioning?
- What design elements and pre-construction plans are top priority to attract top tenants?
