

INSIGHTS + NEWS

Danielle Lederman Writes “Legal details can make or break cannabis startups” for the Worcester Business Journal

BY DANIELLE JUREMA LEDERMAN • OCTOBER 4, 2023

The cannabis industry is so highly regulated in Massachusetts that businesses can easily lose sight of all the laws applying to them. Many cannabis entrepreneurs focus on all the zoning and safety regulations. In her Worcester Business Journal article “Legal details can make or break cannabis startups,” Danielle Lederman highlights the significant federal, state, and local employment laws that cannabis entrepreneurs need to be concerned about. Here is an excerpt:

Ignoring employment laws can lead to disaster. While paying attention to laws about classifying workers as employees versus independent contractors may seem unimportant, startups making a mistake could be put out of business.

Continue reading “Legal details can make or break cannabis startups” on the Worcester Business Journal website.