

Amy Fabiano Moderated Two Panels at ATIXA (Association of Title IX Administrators) Conference

OCTOBER 29, 2024

Finding a supportive community can make all the difference in the challenging world of Title IX compliance and administration. The annual ATIXA conference, which was held in Philadelphia, PA on October 26 to November 1, brought together Title IX administrators from across the country for an unparalleled opportunity to get answers to pressing questions, network with peers navigating similar challenges, and receive in-person certification on compliance best practices from the nation's leading Title IX experts.

At the conference, Amy Fabiano moderated two sessions. On October 29, she moderated "When OCR Comes Knocking: Tips for Responding to OCR Complaints" and then on October 30 Amy moderated "Implementing Best Practices in Title IX Adjudication and Administration at Small Colleges: Taking a Preventative and Proactive Approach."
