T. 617-757-6544 E.bhinks@bowditch.com

OVERVIEW

Ben Hinks is an attorney in the firm's Employment & Labor practice, representing employers in litigation matters from preliminary stages through trial. He has handled wage and hour claims, discrimination actions, non-competition and trade secret disputes, and contract claims before the courts of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and administrative agencies.

Ben also helps counsel clients through a full range of employment issues including hiring, termination, personnel policies and handbooks, leaves of absence, internal investigations, employee discipline and DEI initiatives.

Over the course of his practice, Ben works with clients such as higher education institutions, nonprofits, healthcare organizations, country clubs, hospitality groups, and government contractors.

Additionally, Ben provides assistance to higher education clients with risk management matters and investigations specific to colleges and universities, such as Title IX compliance and sexual misconduct matters, as well as other student and faculty issues.

Besides work

Ben enjoys activities such as skiing and playing tennis with friends and family. He is also an avid soccer fan and supports Arsenal football club.

EXPERIENCE

Executive-level agreement for nonprofit organization

A nonprofit organization with a departing executive decided to outsource the executive's position. In the short term, the organization found an interim executive who agreed to help during the transition period and also stay on at an advisory level as needed after the transition was completed. Ben prepared an employment agreement so that all parties understood the terms and conditions of the position.

Successful arbitration involving claims of fraud and misrepresentation in the employment context

A former employee of an aerospace company brought claims under contract and common law theories alleging misrepresentations related to the terms and conditions of his employment, and specifically, the duties he was required to perform. Ben and the team successfully defended the case and secured a win for the client after a multi-day arbitration. The defense involved nuanced arguments related to the at-will doctrine and reasonable reliance.

OTHER EXPERIENCE

- Healthcare and nonprofit clients with MCAD claims
- Employers before MCAD and EEOC, including race discrimination, disability discrimination, sex discrimination and retaliation
