OF COUNSEL

Roy W. Bjorlin

T. 617-757-6573 E. rbjorlin@bowditch.com

OVERVIEW

Roy Bjorlin represents clients in complex, high-stakes litigation, vigorously representing individuals and companies in matters involving catastrophic personal injuries, employment, and business disputes. He also handles matters involving claims of professional malpractice, construction defects, and product liability. Roy regularly counsels employers on state and federal employment laws and builds strong client relationships by providing clear and concise analysis that leads to cost-effective and favorable resolutions.

Before Bowditch

Before joining Bowditch, Roy practiced as a litigator at Boston-area law firms, representing clients in a broad range of civil litigation matters. Earlier in his career, he worked as a claims professional, an experience that strengthened his understanding of the insurance industry and coverage issues. Roy began his legal career as an Assistant District Attorney for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, where he tried more than a dozen cases before juries.

Besides work

When Roy is not in court, you can often find him coaching youth lacrosse, in a rink watching his kids play hockey, and playing guitar.
